

Transcript

All right, finished the Sonic Workshop today. I really liked the way it's put together and you got to look inside and see how some of those pieces were put together. And some of the public functions were done. It would be neat if you could do the same thing with some of the others where you could see how those methods and functions were put together as well. But you know, that was kind of cool. I liked it.