Okay, so I'm making progress and working on updating it. I wasn't seeing anything happen. So I put a couple pieces of code in and I could see that things were indeed updating and it was actually happening. But the UI itself wasn't making that happen. And so I did some investigating and I just looking through the code and playing with little pieces, and I think I found what I needed. So as I looked through the code, I found this spot and I think this is where I need to work on to get everything to update correctly.
