

Transcript

Day 60! Two-thirds of the way through, yay! Going further into my tutorial and you know for a math day where you're two thirds of the way through, how about playing with some trig and really making math relevant. So this is what it looks like now with cats and crazy cat ladies everywhere. One of the things that I'm really liking with this tutorial is the coverage of math and how to incorporate that math into a game. This is one of those ways that gives math relevance. There's a reason for trigonometry. It does actually solve a problem for us. But too often we don't give kids that why