So I'm at school and got to figure out what I'm going to do today and where I'm supposed to be. It tells me right now at six period, let me look at this bell schedule and see a little bit more information. Oh, wait a minute, I haven't logged in yet. So let me log in. And that will actually give me a little bit more information.

All right, there we go. Okay, I'm supposed to be in chemistry in room 292. So let me get over there. But being a new student, I really don't know where that is. So gonna look at the map, and there I am. Okay, there's where I need to go. All right, I got it. So I'm gonna go close this out, go to class, because I don't want my phone out during class.

And then when I get done at the end of it, I needed one, see a little bit more what's happening, what's going on, and see what's next is the end of the period. And oh, wait a minute. There's a notice up there. So let me see. Um, okay. elections have been postponed. Great. So let's get rid of That good that's gone.

I will go to my backpack and let's see what's happening. So I can now check out more of what's going on on my day and see more of what's happening and just find out more and really get involved in school and take away some of the stress
